ABOUT JASON

Jason Hurt is a multi-ethnic, multi-hyphenate artist and creative entrepreneur. Jason was born in Eschenbach, Germany while his father was based there for the U.S. Army. Hurt was then raised in the Bronx, NY.

As a teenager, Jason was asked to appear in an editorial shoot that Vibe magazine was doing on his high school campus at Mount Saint Michael Academy. Jason went on to attend Barry University in Miami, Florida where he would sign his first professional contract with Elite Model Management.

A gifted writer and actor, he particularly loves the filmmaking process. His most recent projects include the role of Tracey in Noel Calloway's upcoming rom-com feature film, "Aurora," which was acquired by Gravitas Ventures for theatrical and streaming release via The Starz network in early 2023. Hurt is also an Associate Producer on the film. As well as, the role of Myles Monroe in Jonathan Prince's mock-u-mentary style pilot "The Switch Crew," via Philmco Media.

Jason is the writer and creator of "The Ride Movie," a road trip family drama. Currently in pre-production, he is looking forward to producing his first feature film in 2023.

Jason currently resides in Harlem, NYC. When he is not working on set, He enjoys mentoring youth, pursuing entrepreneurial goals, recording music and planning experiential events. Jason is also the founder of Prime Time Event Staffing - a live events consulting agency, and a Co-founder of The Adia Development Group - a minority owned real-estate company on a mission to provide low income housing to urban community members and Veterans.
